BOOZ ALLEN SUMMER GAMES: TRAIN. TRY. TRIUMPH.

WE'VE ALREADY MET

For 100+ years, Booz Allen has driven change. Our ideas are woven through the technologies you use, the security you depend on, and the innovations on which entire industries are built. We lead the pack in engineering, analytics, digital solutions, consulting, and cyber. But while our team has a range of expertise and perspectives, we share a common goal: empowering people to change the world—starting with you.

GAME ON

Many of our big thinkers proved their chops in our Summer Games—a training ground where interns become leaders.

WHAT: An intensive 10-week internship program guided by our senior leaders and simulating a real-world accelerator.

WHO: Thousands of undergraduates apply. A few hundred are accepted.

MISSION: Collaborate with your team to develop a breakthrough solution for one of our clients' most pressing problems.

CULMINATION: After 10 weeks, teams compete in a 3-day pitch session. Each day, senior leaders eliminate teams until the final showdown. Winners get funding and support to make their idea reality.

EXAMPLES: Past winning projects include technology that helps blind people navigate; an app that lets military commanders track open-source information about sudden attacks; and ways to fight human trafficking and global disease.

If you're accepted into the Games, forget cookie-cutter challenges. You'll be asked to create powerful solutions to client problems. Big, complex, important, real problems. The kind of problems we tackle every day at Booz Allen. Because if we join forces after graduation, we need to know you can tackle them too.

ARE YOU READY?

Will you be graduating from a full-time undergraduate program by December 2019? Are you driven by tough challenges? Do you want your work to matter? And are you ready to change the world? Then let's go.
