

1

Create yourself a personal webpage.

What. That's it?

Well, basically yes.

Some specifications:

It must be at least one HTML page

There must be CSS styles (they can be in the same file or separate)

You must have written the majority of the HTML & CSS by hand

Because you wrote it by hand it should be readable

(and we are going to read it)

If you borrow code from other websites it must be cited in comments

There must be at least one image (and all images must have alt tags)

It must really be online

It must include:

Your name

At least one way to contact you (email, social networks)

A short bio (brevity is appreciated)

A section of content that you have created/curated about a topic that interests you, containing at least three links

A note saying you created this site as part of UNM CS152 and a link to my site (<http://patrickgagekelley.com>)

It could include:

A résumé

A picture of you

Pictures you have taken

Video, sound, or other media

The classes you are taking

Things you have made

Lots more links

Other really interesting things

It should not include:

Typos, grammatical errors, broken links, tables for layout.

And finally, do your best to create an attractive looking website.

Nice typefaces, not too many colors, readability, some sort of graphic style (minimalism, hand illustration, 8-bit, flat design, etc.)

Submit your website's real, functioning URL.

Resources:

Creating a UNM site:

<http://it.unm.edu/web/personal/index.html>

HTML:

<http://overapi.com/html/>

http://www.w3schools.com/html/html_quick.asp

http://d2eeipcrdle6.cloudfront.net/seo-cheat-sheet/SEOHeatSheet_2-2013.pdf

CSS:

<http://overapi.com/css/>

<http://www.lesliefranke.com/files/reference/csscheatsheet.html>

Fonts:

<http://hellohappy.org/beautiful-web-type/>

<http://www.google.com/fonts>

<http://www.fastcodesign.com/1664719/infographic-of-the-day-why-should-you-care-about-typography>

Some inspiration:

<http://www.quora.com/Personal-Websites/What-is-the-best-personal-webpage-you-know-of>

<http://www.tutorialchip.com/inspiration/best-and-creative-personal-websites/>

<http://vandelaydesign.com/blog/galleries/personal-websites/>

<http://onepagelove.com/gallery/personal>